

Kam Howard

History Teacher, Advisor

Meet Kam Howard— West Ridge Academy Teacher of History.

Kam has had thirty-one different physical addresses so far in his life, spanning coast to coast. They include Utah, Illinois, Tennessee, Delaware, New York, Mississippi, Washington, Oregon and varying places in between.

Kam's professional career has mainly rested in the writing, negotiating, and analyzing contracts for property rights, leases, and construction for telecommunication equipment.

He has studied American Sign Language, and graduated from the University of Utah where he earned a Bachelors of Art in History. With that degree he applied to and was accepted to five different Law Schools. Choosing to go back to Mississippi where he had lived during his High School years, he attended and graduated from Mississippi College School of Law with his Juris Doctorate.

Kam enjoys West Ridge Academy for the opportunity to not only teach but learn.

Kam has a great family with one daughter and a dog named Scout that was rescued from a shelter. He enjoys exploring the Great Salt Lake and its history, mountain biking, reading (mostly history), writing if he can get the chance, yard work, cars and car shows, and a little bit of everything else in between.
